233 583 601 that is camels two to three years old, and the same word is also used in kinship terminology for brothers and sisters-in-law.

233 436 593 431 514 604 643 The Tuareg make social payments and many indemnities in camels. If, as may happen, a woman permits her husband to take a second wife, she will claim at least one camel from him. Again, if a woman feels herself badly treated by her husband she will go to her parents' camp and not return to her husband until she has been presented with a camel. Parents will sometimes induce their children to marry against their own feelings by means of a gift of camels. In Ahaggar the indemnity for adultery is fixed at three camels paid by the seducer, while one camel is given by an unfaithful wife. However, these camels are not given to the deceived spouse, but to the supreme chief of Ahaggar, the Amenukal.

● 643 For the knocking out of a tooth two camels must be given, but if the injured person is a woman the payment is five camels. For the destruction of an eye the indemnity is fixed at 25 camels. The same payment is made for the cutting off of a hand or a foot, the cutting of a finger or a toe being fixed at

233 436 682 a price of five camels. In agreement with this system blood-wealth in Ahaggar was fixed at one hundred camels in the past. There were quite definite rules governing the age and appearance of the camels to be paid for a slain man. They should all be she-camels of different age, and of ten distinct colours as follows:—

	Age			Colour
10	tilġad, or chét awétay	(one year old)	10	tiberydeġin	(white)
10	tihusin	(2 years old)	10	titlaṛin	(mahogany)
10	tekkenifaddeh	(3 years old)	10	tizeggeṛin	(reddish)
10	tiruyar	(4 years old)	10	tibhawin	(reddish brown)
10	chét essin	(5 years old)	10	tilemlaṛin	(grey)
10	chét okkuz	(6 years old)	10	tizeriſin	(metallic grey)
10	timessedas	(7 years old)	10	timenġelin	(dark grey)
10	chét tahalt	(8 years old)	10	tikewelin	(black)
20	tireġġawin	(more than eight years old; she-camels considered neither young nor old)	10	tizerṛafin	(piebald)
			10	tiwinaṛin	(white cornea)

233 822 * 492 643 The actual value of a camel is never judged from its colour, but colours have a certain æsthetic value, and wealthy Tuareg who keep several riding camels will always have animals of different colours. This is the case with the present Amenukal of Ahaggar, who is said to possess between ten and twenty camels trained for riding.

233 857 565 529 232 324 868 181 Camels play a great part in the life of the individual. Boys of the vassal class may be set to herd goats, but their games centre round camels, and they take no particular interest in other domestic animals. For their games very small boys have camel puppets which are jaw-bones of sheep and goats (Fig. 79a), or roughly-cut stones (Fig. 79b–d). These playthings are their "riding camels", "she-camels", and their "caravans". Boys learn to travel on camel-back at a very early age. When three or four years old they sit behind their father's riding saddle or on the top of a loaded pack-camel, and all boys can ride a trotting camel without a saddle before they are ten. Boys grow up with an intimate knowledge of camels and camel-breeding, and with very little interest in any other subject.

643 and, when grazing is good, 2 goats and 8 kgs of butter annually to the Amenukal who rewards the man
651 bringing this payment with a gift of 11.5 metres of cotton. As to the Kel Arefsa sub-tribe its collective
614 payments are the same as those made by the Isandan. (2) The Dag Rali tribe pays tiwsé as follows:—
613 12 bags of millet (i.e., 3 bags from each of the four tribal sections) corresponding to 6 camel-loads,
565 are given to the chief of the Dag Rali. He sends 10 bags to the Amenukal, and keeps two for himself. In case of good grazing the whole tribe gives 10 goats and 6 containers of butter to the Amenukal. – All vassal tribes of the Kel Rela drum group make such annual payments to the Amenukal, and this also applies to the Isekkemaren tribes. These payments, known as tiwsé, are in fact tokens of vassalage,
[639] and are never made by noble Tuareg. The payments should properly belong to the Amenukal as drum-chief of the Kel Rela, while vassal tribes of other drum-groups should make their payments to their particular drum-chiefs.

643 The Amenukal had other rights over his subjects. He had the right to summon the vassals of his 634 drum-group to war and large-scale raiding, and he had the right to half of all war booty taken by his
565 vassals. This right was known as abellag, and the vassals of other drum-groups paid similar dues to their particular drum-chiefs. Furthermore, we have seen that the Amenukal as the leader of the Kel Rela drum-group could inherit livestock from such deceased subjects as had no living patrilineal
[644] kinsmen, though he would make no use of livestock thus inherited. The animals would remain in the tribe to which the deseased person belonged under the supervision of the tribal chief (cf. p. 138). As a drum-chief the Amenukal also had the right to the riding camel of any deceased vassal chief
[644] within his drum-group. This is also the case nowadays, but it should here be mentioned that the chief of the very important vassal tribe, the Dag Rali, has the right to one of the Amenukal's riding camels on the latter's death.

643 As the supreme judge of his drum-group the Amenukal could claim various indemnities (eddiyet)
634 among which have been mentioned those paid for violation of the rights of his land-tenants (p. 151).
681 Even to-day the Amenukal can claim these and many other indemnities. In case of adultery, for instance,
[684] he can claim three camels from the seducer and one camel from the unfaithful wife. If a man catches his wife committing adultery he has the right to kill her and the seducer on the spot, and formerly
[682] the families of persons thus killed had no right to revenge or blood-wealth. Neither was blood-wealth
[614] paid in case of murder within the tribe, but the Amenukal might then claim an indemnity from the murderer. When the murderer and the person killed came from different tribes, blood-wealth had to be paid to the family of the slain man by the murderer's kinsmen. The Amenukal could not deny his subjects the right of revenge if they refused to accept blood-wealth, and if blood-wealth was paid he had no right to any part from it. Blood-wealth was fixed at one hundred she-camels for a slain man and fifty she-camels for a woman, but it may be doubted whether so many camels were ever paid.
[683] For bodily harm of various kinds there were other indemnities to be paid in camels (cf. p. 102), and
178 such indemnities are perhaps made even nowadays, but blood-wealth and revenge have been abolished
[648] by the French, who have in many ways given the Amenukal more power over his subjects than he had in the past.

178 To-day the authority of the Amenukal is almost unlimited. If, for instance, a man will not allow 643 his son to marry the woman he likes, the son may go to the Amenukal and ask him whether he
